LITTLE MISS WALLIS.

Something About the Smallest Actress on the Stage.

ENTERTAINED TOPEKANS SATURDAY.

Joe Cawthorn, as Popular as Ever—A Very Bad Play Made to Please by Superior Talent.

Miss Gladys Wallis, who, with Joe Cawthorn and the Patti Rosa company, played "A Girl's Way" at the Grand Saturday night, is a very clever little woman and may some day be a really superior actress. She is even prettier than her lithograph and as charming as she has been described by newspaper critics and dramatic people. She is talented, everyone that saw her Saturday agrees on that—but it will take several seasons of hard study and experience to make her a great star. She has pluck and determination, however, in addition to her talent and if work will put her at the top she will be there. She is 20 years of age, though she doesn't look it and has only been on the stage for three years.

Her work Saturday night was sweet and charming but it seemed to lack strength somewhere and there was almost no air of uncertainty about her lines at times.

Joe Cawthorn, the German dialect comedian was easily the favorite. He has no equal in his line, and his concertina playing is a marvel. Cawthorn is about twenty-six years of age and has been on the stage ever since he was three years old.

Maurice Darcy is a very good singer and his duets with Miss Wallis were very pretty though Miss Wallis doesn't pretend to be much of a singer. If Mr. Darcy never spoke a word and only sang the play would be improved.

John W. Dunne, who played "Daddy," is the owner of the show and was Patti Rosa's husband.

The play is a miserable one. The entire company, almost, admits that now after it has tried it for a few weeks. The supporting company was ordinarily good.

SHE ISN'T ENGAGED.

Miss Wallis Says She Thinks More of the Stage Than of Any Man.

The first thing Miss Wallis did when she reached Topeka Saturday was to take her ninety pounds of animation and her chaperon—she has one with her—and start out on a round of the book stores. "I am so interested in old books," she said, "and the first thing I do when I get into a town is begin a search of the stores. I am always buying things and in Mr. Crane's company they gave me the name of 'Household Cares.' I always had so many bundles along."

"About my life? Now, my life has been just like any other girl's. Not a bit different. I used to write when I was very small, and then I have gone to school and been engaged and all that, you know, just like everyone else does. But I'm not engaged now. Dear me. And I doubt if I will ever marry. I think more of my ambition than I ever could of any man."

"I am just full of ambition and sometimes I think I have too much. Everyone is very kind to me, though, and tells me such nice things about my work that if I am ever discouraged it isn't for long."

"I am disappointed in the play I have this year and I wish it wasn't too late to change. Next year I think I will have a new one called 'Nebraska.' Now please don't print that because we might want to change it to 'Kansas' when we bring it to Topeka."

"I don't know yet whether I like stardom or not, but I expect to stick to it."

After the play the company was entertained by the Elks club. Mr. Cawthorn and Mr. Darcy sang and Mr. Newman, treasurer of the company, recited. Some of the Topeka members of the Elks also took part in the programme.

The company remained in Topeka over Sunday and several of its members attended church.

It went to Junction City today and will play three or four more towns in Kansas before going to Texas.

UNION PACIFIC MORTGAGE.

Col. Veale Thinks Congress Will Extend the Government Mortgage.

"I do not look for legislation unfavorable to the Union Pacific railroad by congress," said Col. George W. Veale today. "Congress is not unfriendly to the Pacific roads and I apprehend that a long extension of the bonds held by the government at a low rate of interest will be the result."

"The reorganization must of course fix up a scheme to take the road out of its present trouble and I believe that this will eventually be done and the Pacific railroads will soon be placed upon a new and safe basis."

Remember sale, supper and entertainment at the First Presbyterian church, Wednesday, December 12th.

507 KANSAS AVE.

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.

Judge John Guthrie says the metropolitan police system is all right.

Dr. J. M. Buckley is to lecture at Baker University Thursday night of this week.

State Senator Lucien Baker has been mentioned as a United States senatorial possibility.

State Senator Charles F. Scott says Rudolph Hatfield would make a good United States senator.

Rev. H. D. Fisher, the pioneer Methodist preacher, wants to be chaplain of the house this winter.

It is the opinion of the politicians around the Copeland that the Osborn libel suit will not come to trial again.

The buildings at the Osawatimie insane asylum are said to be the coldest public buildings in the state.

A. W. Dana, of Topeka is on the programme for an oration at the Kansas Day club banquet in January.

The contest for the position of secretary of the state senate seems to be between D. C. Zercher and W. L. Brown.

Most of the Populist employees in the state house expect to have jobs during the winter around the state senate.

Arthur Capper says Charles E. Gault is on the state for deputy coal oil inspector, and adds that "he ought to have it."

The five stock sanitary commissioners now occupy the room in the state house formerly used by the state bank commissioners.

The people who will not be in the Republican senatorial caucus are already fixing up the order of business for the caucus.

The motion for a rehearing of the De Bolivar orphan's home case has been withdrawn from before the supreme court.

About three hundred people attended a celebration of the Mission Township Republican Flambeau club a few evenings ago.

The Citizens' State bank of Goffs has been chartered by the secretary of state. It has an authorized capital stock of $10,000.

Bent Murdock says Col. O. E. Leonard of Lawrence would make good senatorial timber, if the candidates in the field already are unsatisfactory.

Dr. S. F. Upham will tell about the first Epworth league at the closing session of the itinerants' club this evening at the First M. E. church.

Chairman Charles S. Elliott of the Republican county central committee is not quite sure whether the metropolitan police law is all right or not.

There are thirteen students attending a meeting of the Kansas Episcopal Theological school which is building a two weeks' session at Bethany college.

Judge G. W. McKay was re-elected to the bench by a majority of fifty-four votes over his Republican opponent in the twenty-fourth judicial district.

As it now stands there are five candidates for speaker of the house—C. E. Lobdell, J. V. Beckman, J. K. Cribbison, S. S. Benedict and Alexander Warner.

If Attorney General Little had his way about it the Australian ballot law would be changed to compel the use of pen and ink instead of a pencil in marking the ballot.

Dr. S. McGerald, who lectured on "Lessons from Rome" at the First M. E. church Saturday night, says he used to think the Apostle Peter was the first pope.

The A. P. A. down in Miami county has adopted resolutions protesting against the appointment of Tom Kelly as state oil inspector. L. S. Crum also protests.

Edgar M. Smith, secretary of the Republican county central committee of Wyandotte county, has been appointed to a clerkship in the state auditor's office at a salary of $1200.

General Manager J. J. Frey and General Superintendent H. U. Mudge of the Santa Fe are going over the Southern Kansas division this week on a tour of inspection.

Attorney General Little says the Metropolitan police law should be repealed in the interest of home rule in the towns where the women and men both vote on municipal affairs.

Col. J. W. F. Hughes has promised not to wear his uniform except on state occasions after he is appointed adjutant general. The colonel is plenty handsome enough without it.

Attorney General Little thinks the court of appeals for the relief of the supreme court should sit in Topeka, and should have jurisdiction of cases involving amounts less than $1,500 in civil procedure.

When the late John A. Martin was governor of Kansas he refused to ask for a railroad pass for anybody, and he was the only governor Kansas ever had who was not pestered almost to death by the pass fleads.

Secretary Coburn of the state board of agriculture is the only man in Kansas, so far as heard from, who can write a funny article about agriculture and still satisfy the farmers that he knows what he is writing about.

Fletcher Merideth who will help make laws in Topeka this winter says the live stock commissioners, the coal oil inspectors and grain inspectors are more ornamental than useful and their offices should be abolished.

W. W. Wiley of Shawnee county, who had a job at the reform school in the early days of the Populist administration has gone to Indiana, where it is said he has a job in the reform school of that state.

It is said that a mutual admiration society has been formed among the Republican members of the state senate who will give each member a complimentary vote for United States senator if there are enough ballots to go around.

Captain Jack Downing, who was a clerk in the office of the state board of railroad commissioners under the last Republican administration, is now proprietor of a drug store at Hays City and says he is not looking for a political job.

State Senator Edwin Taylor, who made the hard fight for an anti-lottery bill during the last legislature, says the metropolitan police law should not be repealed, but should be amended to change the manner of selecting the chief of police.
